> Economist Jeffrey Sachs argues that Israel's control over Palestinians depends entirely on American support, which has now eroded as the US public becomes aware of what he describes as systematic killings, ethnic cleansing, and violations of international law in Gaza and the West Bank.

SAŽETAK

In this commentary, economist Jeffrey Sachs contends that Israel exercises control over 8 million Palestinians while claiming impunity for killings and ethnic cleansing. He describes what he characterizes as murderous actions in the West Bank and Israel—including burning Palestinian homes and destroying Palestinian livestock—carried out without accountability. Sachs argues that Israel operates what he calls the world's most fascistic and blatantly illegal government by international standards, yet the United States has historically characterized Israel as a democracy. However, Sachs emphasizes that Israel's capacity to continue these operations depends entirely on American support and cannot be sustained independently. He notes a significant shift: while Israel previously enjoyed decades of stalwart American public backing, that support has now been lost, with the American public increasingly rejecting Israel's actions.

ČLANAK

Israel's Control and Claimed Impunity

Israel claims that it controls 8 million Palestinians and that it can kill them with impunity. It asserts that it can ethnically cleanse them. Right now, what Sachs describes as absolute murderers in the West Bank and Israel are burning down Palestinian homes, killing flocks of animals belonging to Palestinian farmers, and acting with complete impunity. The United States has responded to this by characterizing Israel as a democracy, treating the situation as if it represents democratic values.

Israel's Dependence on American Support

Israel operates what Sachs characterizes as the world's most fascistic government currently in existence—the most murderous and blatantly illegal from the point of view of every international standard by which any government can be judged. However, Israel's ability to continue these operations depends entirely on the United States. Israel cannot sustain this behavior for even one day on its own. Historically, Israel has enjoyed stalwart support from the American public for decades. But that support has now been lost. The American public has become sick of what Israel is doing.
